A historical painting depicting the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. The scene is set in a grand, ornate room with high ceilings and classical architectural details. Numerous men in 18th-century attire are gathered around a long table, some seated and some standing, engaged in discussion and signing documents. In the background, several flags are displayed on the wall. A large white speech bubble is superimposed over the upper right portion of the painting, containing the text "And we will never be ROYALS!". A smaller speech bubble is also visible, pointing to a man on the right side of the painting, containing the word "ROYALS!".

And we will never be
ROYALS!

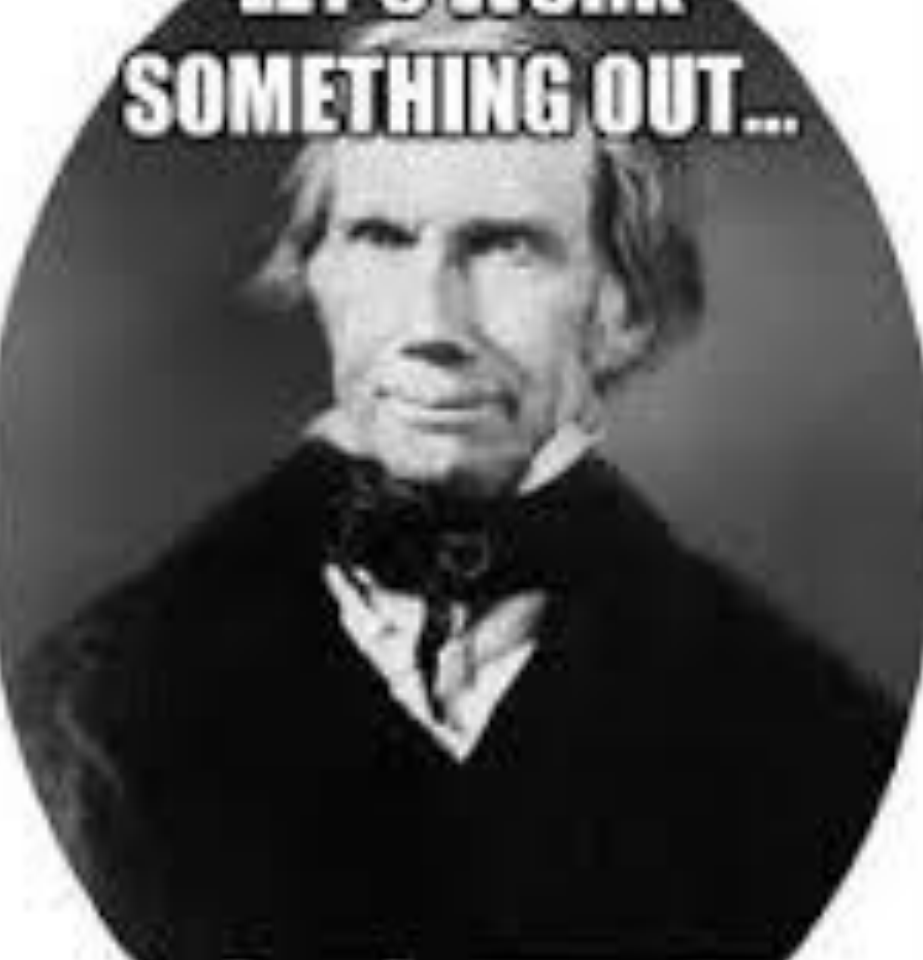

ROYALS!
